Red Nation Black World K.D. Shumard
We all experience the emotion of anger. Some people experience anger every day. Over the past decade, it has become more apparent that our collective anger has risen to new heights. We can see and sense this growing anger no matter where we are; whether we are out in public, or if we are simply watching TV or a movie at home. This epidemic has resulted in a phenomenal increase in the number of people using anti-depressant, anti-anxiety and/or blood pressure medications. What has happened to create all of the anger? What can be done to calm some of the anger?
